

The demands and expectations of customers, new competitors, the rise of insurance-tech and a changing set of challenges are transforming the insurance industry. Companies, both new and veteran, benefit from advisers with an impressive understanding of the trends and the experience to settle disputes.

The Insurance team at Salomon Lipschütz & Co., headed by partner Bat-Sheva Adiv, offers the Firm's clients comprehensive, reliable and professional advice in the extremely wide range of insurance disciplines – professional liability, negligence, bodily injuries, property and more.

The Department provides ongoing advice and consultation to many entities in the Israeli economy, from insurance companies and agencies, through public and private companies, to holders of free professions, with regards to different insurance issues, drafting policies and other insurance documents, business consultation on contractual undertakings and insurance undertakings, ongoing consultation to insurance companies and insureds concerning issues of insurance coverage, and specific consultation on clients' occupation-related and business activity-related derivatives.

The extensive experience of the Department members enables them to tailor to each and every client from every business or private sector, an accurate personalized insurance "suit" as far as relevant policy types, amounts and terms are concerned.

The Department represents clients from actual fields of insurance as well as entire sectors of the Israeli and international economy such as high-tech, transport, communication, and others, who rely on the in-depth knowledge of the Department's attorneys and their ability to provide smart planning of policies, assess risks and prospects, and understand the business field they operate in, all for maximum protection of the client's business activities and professional and economic interests.
